

Toward an Employee Health Management Research Agenda: What Are the Research Priorities?

As employee health management (EHM) programs continue to grow and mature, employers are increasingly interested in gaining a deeper understanding of contributing factors to EHM program success. To lead in this effort, HERO has evaluated the current research, established new research priorities and created a strategic road map to guide our direction. This article will give you insight into the process HERO employed to determine what research priorities are most important to our members and the industry, consistent with the HERO mission.

This research is complete and published in AJHP The Art of Health Promotion
Section: July/August 2012

David Anderson, PhD; Melondie Carter, DSN, RN; Kristi Rahrig Jenkins, PhD; Terry Karjalainen, PhD, R. William Whitmer, MBA purchase this article