

HERO By the Numbers

What the boss really thinks about employee health

Following are highlights from a recent HERO survey of more than 500 business leaders from across the country who were asked about their views on health as it relates to productivity and performance in the workplace. Access this study at <http://bit.ly/1vvjMGA>.

57%

of business leaders surveyed said their leaders view health as an investment in human capital or as part of the company's core business strategy of business leaders felt their organization's leaders are committed to improving the health of their workforce

Business Priorities Influenced by Employee Health

