

Juliette McClendon, Ph.D., Director of Medical Affairs, Big Health

Juliette McClendon, PhD, is the Director of Medical Affairs at Big Health. She is a clinical psychologist with expertise in mental health equity, evidence-based care, and culturally responsive care. At Big Health, Juliette focuses on expanding the reach of evidence-based care through a scalable, digital format to bring millions back to good mental health. She has over a dozen peer-reviewed research articles focusing on the impact of racism and discrimination on mental health. She received her PhD in psychology from Washington University in St. Louis and a BA in psychology from Harvard University.

Eduardo Sanchez, M.D., M.P.H., FAAFP, FAHA,
Chief Medical Officer for Prevention, American Heart Association

Eduardo Sanchez, MD, MPH, FAAFP, serves as Chief Medical Officer for Prevention for American Heart Association. He is principal investigator of the National Hypertension Control Initiative, a control cooperative agreement with two federal agencies. He is the lead on Target:BP (a joint BP control initiative with the AMA) and KnowDiabetesbyHeart™ (a CV initiative with the American Diabetes Association). Eduardo served as Texas Commissioner of Health, overseeing Texas' health services from 2001 to 2006. He obtained his MD from UT Texas SW Medical School and his MPH from UT Houston School of Public Health.

Karen Hume, M.P.A., Management Consultant, Houston Business Coalition on Health

Karen Hume, MPA, is a management consultant working with the Houston Business Coalition on Health, executing a nationwide mental health initiative. Karen is also serving on the International Initiative for Mental Health Leadership, a unique multilateral collaborative aimed at providing better mental health and addiction outcomes. Before joining HBCH, Karen worked as a senior advisor to MHA, co-developing evidence-based workplace interventions in partnership with the University of Glasgow and the Canadian Mental Health Association.

Ron Goetzel, Ph.D., Senior Scientist, Johns Hopkins

Ron Z. Goetzel, PhD, Senior Scientist and Director, Institute for Health and Productivity Studies at Johns Hopkins University and Vice President of Consulting and Applied Research at Truven Health Analytics (formerly Thomson Reuters Healthcare Business), is a nationally recognized expert in health management, data analysis, and applied research. He has led numerous projects focusing on documenting the health and productivity cost burden of various disease conditions. He is Principal Investigator (PI) on several large-scale NIH, CDC, and CMS funded studies. Ron earned his doctorate in organizational and administrative studies and his MA in applied social psychology from New York University, and his BS degree in psychology from the City College of New York.

Darcy Gruttadaro, J.D., Director, American Psychiatric Association Foundation, Center for Workplace Mental Health

Darcy Gruttadaro, JD, is the Director of the Center for Workplace Mental Health at the American Psychiatric Association Foundation. She works with her team in developing high impact trainings, programs, resources, and case studies to support mentally healthy workplaces. The Center collaborates with employers of all sizes and other stakeholders in raising mental health awareness, creating mentally healthy organizational cultures, and improving access to healthcare services and supports. Before joining the Center, Darcy served in multiple senior level policy and program positions with NAMI. She has expertise in expanding evidence-based practices, improving early intervention, financing mental health services, and building an array of effective services and supports that promote resiliency and recovery.

Daryl Tol, M.H.A., Executive Vice President, One Mind

In 2021, Daryl Tol, MHA, joined leading mental health and brain research nonprofit One Mind as Executive Vice President, overseeing the One Mind at Work programs and contributing to One Mind's vision and objectives. He brings more than 20 years of healthcare leadership, as well as personal, lived experience of mental health struggles. Previously, Daryl was President/CEO of AdventHealth East Florida Region. At the helm of this $700 million, six hospital region, he developed an ecosystem approach to regional leadership and drove the acquisition of the sixth hospital. Before that, he served as President/CEO of AdventHealth DeLand. Daryl holds a Bachelor's of Science in business administration (accounting/finance) from Walla Walla University and a Master's in Healthcare Administration from Loma Linda University.